Gitta specialises in international arbitration and public international law. She advises clients in international disputes across a wide range of industries as well as on complex issues including sovereign immunity, investment treaty protection, and sanctions. She is fluent in English and Indonesian (native). Gitta studied law at the National University of Singapore (NUS) and graduated in 2005 with an LL.B. (Hons). She qualified as an advocate and solicitor of the Supreme Court of Singapore in 2006.

Gitta joined Herbert Smith Freehills in Singapore as an associate in 2009 and was seconded to the firm's London office in 2013. She recently returned to the Singapore office. She has worked out of the firm's Singapore, London, and Jakarta offices on cases administered by various arbitral institutions including the SIAC, PCA, LCIA, ICC, and ICSID.
